Summary

Peri-urban areas, the transitional zones situated between urban and rural environments, have emerged as crucial landscapes due to the ongoing expansion of urban development. These zones are marked by porous and transitory boundaries as cities extend into rural and industrial territories. However, the multifaceted challenges posed by peri-urban areas, including environmental concerns, architectural changes, urban-rural planning issues, socioeconomic dynamics, and shifts in social behavior, have often been addressed in isolation. A comprehensive approach to managing these challenges is essential, and policy-level consideration is imperative.

In response to these challenges, a three-day virtual national conference was organized, aimed at fostering discussions among professionals, academicians, policy makers, and experts. The conference served as a platform for deliberating on the intricate complexities associated with peri-urban areas and exploring potential solutions.

Conference Objectives: The primary goal of the conference was to facilitate inclusive discussions on the multifaceted issues within peri-urban areas. The conference aimed to:

Address Comprehensive Issues: Bring together various stakeholders to discuss the diverse range of challenges in peri-urban areas, including environmental concerns, architectural shifts, urban planning, socioeconomic aspects, and changes in social behavior.

Highlight Policy Implications: Advocate for policy-level considerations to address peri-urban challenges more effectively and holistically.

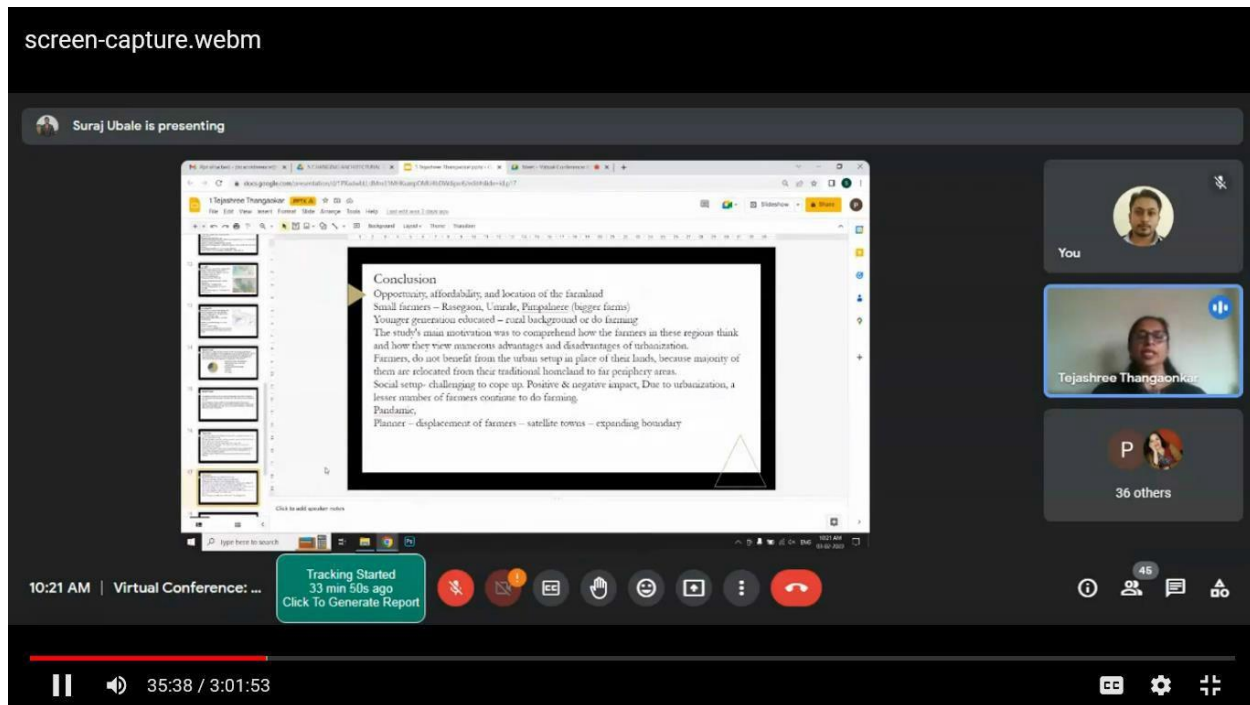

Share Knowledge and Strategies: Enable professionals, academics, and policymakers to share their insights, strategies, and best practices for managing peri-urban landscapes.

Conference Proceedings: The conference witnessed the participation of keynote speakers, session chairs, and experts from diverse fields related to peri-urban issues. These luminaries shared their expertise, insights, and innovative approaches to managing the complex challenges posed by peri-urban areas. The discussions spanned a wide range of topics, offering a comprehensive view of the issues at hand.

Various committees comprising members of the PRCA staff worked diligently to organize and manage different aspects of the conference, ensuring its success and smooth execution. The conference provided a holistic platform for knowledge exchange, collaborative thinking, and networking among professionals with a shared interest in peri-urban areas.

Outcome and Impact: The conference's outcomes and insights are expected to contribute significantly to future policy formulations and strategies concerning peri-urban areas in India. The proceedings and guidelines generated as a result of the conference, complete with ISBN number 978-81-960313-0-5, will serve as valuable resources for drafting and designing strategies that address the multifaceted challenges within peri-urban landscapes.

In conclusion, the national conference on peri-urban areas marked a pivotal moment for comprehensive discussions on the challenges within these transitional zones. By fostering dialogue and knowledge exchange among experts and stakeholders, the conference aimed to pave the way for more holistic and effective approaches to managing peri-urban areas in the Indian context.

Threats

- New planning and land use policies can threaten the natural and cultural resources.
- Need to have sensitive planning interventions which respect the existing resources.
- Economic growth potentials mapped alongside the natural and cultural potentials to avoid harm.
- Redefining "land uses" – contextualizing the recreational / public open spaces by continuing the existing natural systems.
- Avoiding superimposition land uses based on theoretical principles of neighbourhood. Neighbourhood to be reinterpreted for the peri urban spaces.

Summary

Peri-urban areas, the transitional zones situated between urban and rural environments, have emerged as crucial landscapes due to the ongoing expansion of urban development. These zones are marked by porous and transitory boundaries as cities extend into rural and industrial territories. However, the multifaceted challenges posed by peri-urban areas, including environmental concerns, architectural changes, urban-rural planning issues, socioeconomic dynamics, and shifts in social behavior, have often been addressed in isolation. A comprehensive approach to managing these challenges is essential, and policy-level consideration is imperative.

In response to these challenges, a three-day virtual national conference was organized, aimed at fostering discussions among professionals, academicians, policy makers, and experts. The conference served as a platform for deliberating on the intricate complexities associated with peri-urban areas and exploring potential solutions.

Conference Objectives: The primary goal of the conference was to facilitate inclusive discussions on the multifaceted issues within peri-urban areas. The conference aimed to:

Address Comprehensive Issues: Bring together various stakeholders to discuss the diverse range of challenges in peri-urban areas, including environmental concerns, architectural shifts, urban planning, socioeconomic aspects, and changes in social behavior.

Highlight Policy Implications: Advocate for policy-level considerations to address peri-urban challenges more effectively and holistically.

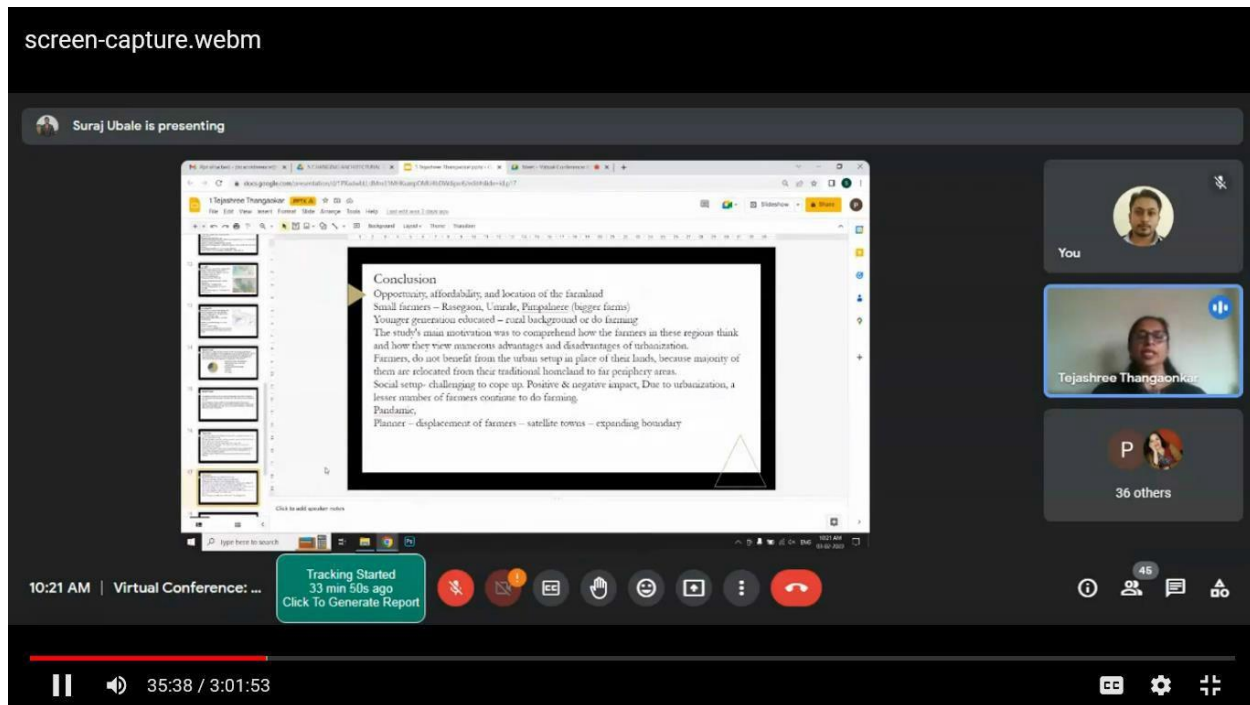

Share Knowledge and Strategies: Enable professionals, academics, and policymakers to share their insights, strategies, and best practices for managing peri-urban landscapes.

Conference Proceedings: The conference witnessed the participation of keynote speakers, session chairs, and experts from diverse fields related to peri-urban issues. These luminaries shared their expertise, insights, and innovative approaches to managing the complex challenges posed by peri-urban areas. The discussions spanned a wide range of topics, offering a comprehensive view of the issues at hand.

Various committees comprising members of the PRCA staff worked diligently to organize and manage different aspects of the conference, ensuring its success and smooth execution. The conference provided a holistic platform for knowledge exchange, collaborative thinking, and networking among professionals with a shared interest in peri-urban areas.

Outcome and Impact: The conference's outcomes and insights are expected to contribute significantly to future policy formulations and strategies concerning peri-urban areas in India. The proceedings and guidelines generated as a result of the conference, complete with ISBN number 978-81-960313-0-5, will serve as valuable resources for drafting and designing strategies that address the multifaceted challenges within peri-urban landscapes.

In conclusion, the national conference on peri-urban areas marked a pivotal moment for comprehensive discussions on the challenges within these transitional zones. By fostering dialogue and knowledge exchange among experts and stakeholders, the conference aimed to pave the way for more holistic and effective approaches to managing peri-urban areas in the Indian context.

2022-23	SEMINAR ON MUD ARCHITECTURE
Expert Person:	Ar. Prerana Kataria
Activity Head:	Ar.Charuta Sonparote
Aim:	To understand the importance of Mud Architecture.
Objectives :	<ul style="list-style-type: none">i. To understand how mud is used as construction material.ii. To learn about different types of techniques used in mud architecture.i. To aware students about the mud construction and hoe it is implemented.
Duration:	9.00am – 11.00am
Number of students:	25

Summary:

Guest Lecturer Ar. Prerana delivered an enlightening presentation to a captivated audience of students, delving into the profound significance of mud architecture as an innovative and sustainable construction technique. Through a meticulously prepared slideshow, Ar. Prerana meticulously detailed the diverse applications of mud-based construction, encompassing mud bricks, rammed earth, compressed earth blocks, and other earthen methodologies. The central message of the lecture was the immense potential of leveraging mud and advanced construction techniques to elevate living standards, especially in regions where these natural resources are abundant.

The lecture commenced by tracing the historical trajectory of mud as a foundational building material. Ar. Prerana highlighted the astonishing fact that approximately 58% of buildings in India have been constructed using mud bricks. This rich history underscored the enduring reliability of mud construction, even as it has evolved to accommodate contemporary construction practices. The lecture emphasized the intrinsic advantages of mud-based techniques, notably the remarkably low energy requirements for manufacturing compared to conventional construction materials. Furthermore, Ar. Prerana eloquently illustrated how mud structures, commonly found in arid regions, offer year-round comfort due to their natural cooling properties, a unique feature that modern architecture often struggles to replicate.

Ar. Prerana's presentation continued by elucidating the environmentally conscientious aspects of mud house construction. The lecture demonstrated the accessibility and simplicity of the natural materials involved, which include soil mixed with water, paddy, hay, dried fiber, and even recycled waste. The inherent resilience and rebuildability of mud houses emerged as key advantages, setting them apart from conventional structures. Notably, Ar. Prerana also highlighted the potential of mud architecture to seamlessly blend traditional aesthetics with contemporary design, showcasing how these techniques can offer architectural solutions that honor the past while embracing the present.

The lecture culminated in a dynamic and interactive session, where students were invited to voice their perspectives on mud architecture. This exchange provided a platform for students to engage directly with Ar. Prerana and share their thoughts on whether they perceived mud as a preferable and sustainable option for construction. Students enthusiastically debated the potential challenges and opportunities of incorporating mud-based techniques into their future architectural pursuits, fostering a stimulating dialogue that extended beyond the lecture hall.

In essence, Ar. Prerana's lecture left an indelible impression on the students, providing them with a comprehensive grasp of the potential and advantages of mud architecture. By unveiling the historical importance, modern adaptations, and sustainable merits of mud construction, the lecture inspired students to reflect on the integration of these techniques into their forthcoming architectural endeavors. Ar. Prerana's presentation thus catalyzed a heightened awareness of environmentally conscious and culturally sensitive architectural practices among the students, fostering a new generation of architects poised to create innovative and responsible structures.

In a dynamic session held between 10 AM to 2 PM, both architects utilized engaging PowerPoint presentations to convey their wealth of knowledge and experience.

Ar. Vijay Pandey elucidated the integration of sustainable practices, energy efficiency, and eco-friendly materials within housing design. He drew upon his own projects to demonstrate the practical application of sustainable planning principles, showcasing how these measures contribute to both environmental preservation and improved quality of life.

Complementing this, Ar. Sameer Shinde embarked on a comprehensive exploration of affordability challenges in housing projects. Through innovative design approaches and cost-effective construction methods, he tackled the complexities of creating affordable housing solutions. He also shed light on various government schemes aimed at promoting low-cost housing, enriching participants with actionable strategies.

2021-22	Webinar on Urban Design Legislation
Resource Person:	Ar. Sameer Shinde
Coordinator	Ar. Tejashree Thangaokar, Ar. Suraj Ubale
No. of Students:	27+PRCA Staff
Aim:	To Introduce Urban Design Legislation
Objectives:	i. To know the basics of urban planning and design ii. To introduce the legislation related to the urban development
Duration:	2:30 Hrs. (09.30am – 12.00pm)

Summary:

The webinar on "Urban Design Legislation," led by Ar. Sameer Shinde, provided a comprehensive overview of the intricate legal and planning frameworks that govern urban development in India. The session began with an exploration of the Constitution's significance in the context of Urban Studies, emphasizing the importance of ensuring that the rights of all citizens are upheld during the design and development process.

The historical evolution of urban development in India from 1947 to 1992 was discussed in depth, citing examples such as industrial cities like Jamshedpur and pilgrimage cities like Varanasi. Ar. Shinde highlighted the emergence of institutional buildings from 1951 to 1956, which contributed to shaping urban landscapes.

The presenter emphasized that nearly half of Maharashtra's population resides in urban areas and discussed the policies enacted to cater to this urban demographic. Policies were designed for towns, talukas, and municipal bodies, leading to a significant migration from rural to urban areas. The concept of urban planning, urbanization, and the planning process for cities were elucidated.

Legislations and amendments relevant to urban planning, such as the Maharashtra Regional Town Planning Act of 1966 and the Jawaharlal Nehru National Urban Renewal Mission (JNNURM) of 2005, were explained. These policies empowered local bodies in towns like Badlapur, Phaltan, and Pune, contributing to their development. The session also delved into the importance of the Rent Control Act in relation to urban planning, addressing the needs of the floating population. Various housing development schemes, state programs under the Maharashtra Regional Town Planning Act, and urban development projects were discussed, including those in Mumbai's periphery.

Ar. Shinde further highlighted the National Smart Cities Mission's goals and the government's initiatives for slum rehabilitation and affordable housing. The role of the Slum Rehabilitation Authority (SRA) in identifying and empowering marginalized populations was explained. The presenter touched on housing finance schemes like PMAY and their impact on inclusive housing.

Informal slum development, encroachments, and the challenges faced by the economically disadvantaged were discussed. The roles of MHADA (Maharashtra Housing and Area Development Authority) and inclusive housing strategies were elaborated upon.

The requirement for greenfield plots to allocate 20% of the space for inclusive housing or affordable housing was highlighted. The concept of In-situ Slum Redevelopment (ISSR) was introduced as a strategy to address informal settlements. The session concluded with an interactive question and answer segment, where Ar. Shinde addressed participants' queries. The students and faculty expressed appreciation for the detailed insights shared by Ar. Shinde, highlighting the depth of information covered during the session. Ar. Tejashree Thangaokar extended a vote of thanks, concluding the informative and enlightening webinar on Urban Design Legislation.

EFFECTS OF URBANISATION

Urbanisation in India is characterised by unplanned and uncontrolled growth leading to urban sprawl. Land use planning and the pattern of development, relationship between residential areas and industrial, commercial and office complexes have a considerable impact on the environment. Most of all, appropriate infrastructure provision has not kept pace with economic growth. Consequently, the environment of urban areas, particularly of larger cities, has been deteriorating rapidly.

Urbanization can result in negative effects but if it takes place up to a desirable limit it may result in positive effects. They may be as follows:

- Adequate employment opportunities in urban centres.
- Sufficient Physical and Social Infrastructure.

Thus urbanisation has its own merits and de-merits. Urbanization can't be avoided. But the negative effect of urbanization can be minimised.

What has actually changed after 74th Constitution Amendment Act of 1992?

Municipalities have been in existent in several cities of India before 1992 as well. The question that arose hence was that what exactly have changed after this Amendment. The difference between the municipal bodies functioning pre and post the 1992 Amendment Act are as follows:

- The municipalities in pre-1992 era did not have the constitutional status and the State governments were free to extend or control the functional sphere through executive decisions. This was done away with post 1992.
- Before the amendment, the State government could control the municipalities by controlling the funds. Vide this Amendment, The State government is mandated to transfer the funds in accordance with the recommendations of the State Finance Commission.
- The subject of jurisdiction was clearly defined in the 74th amendment with municipalities having exclusive control over 18 listed subjects including Housing.
- Representation of SCs/ST and women was laid down in the Act itself making the municipalities a more representative body.

Class:	1st Year
Topic:	Case Study
Location:	Paithani tourism center ,Yeola
Aim:	To study planning and circulation handloom information center.
Objectives:	To Study and analyze zoning patterns To study and analyze circulation pattern To study and analyze planning. To study and analyze arrangement of spaces.
Duration:	08:00 am to 04:00 pm
No. Of Students:	29

OUTCOME:

A case study was conducted for the first-year students to design and plan a Handloom Information Center at Yeola. The study took place at Yeola with 29 students, under the guidance of subject teachers Ar. Dipeeka Arbatti, Ar. Ashwini Gholap, and Ar. Shrikant Nikam. The main objective of the case study was to introduce the students to the site and its functioning, providing them with valuable insights for their design and planning project.

During the case study, the students were introduced to the site and gained an understanding of the Handloom Information Center's intended functions and purposes. Various maps were generated by different student groups, covering different topics related to the design and planning of the center. These maps included site analysis, circulation patterns, public built spaces, and other essential aspects.

The students were encouraged to draw sketches of the existing site conditions and circulation patterns during the site visit. This sketching exercise allowed them to observe and analyze the site's physical layout, connectivity, and spatial organization.

To gather comprehensive information, the students utilized various data-gathering methods, such as sketches, data collection, and photographs. They also examined the circulation patterns and the arrangement of public built spaces in the area.

After the site visit and data collection, the students returned to the college and presented their detailed reports during studio lectures. The reports comprised their findings, observations, and analysis, organized according to their respective groups devised by the subject teachers.

The case study provided the first-year students with practical knowledge and skills related to designing and planning a Handloom Information Center. By studying the site and its functions, they could develop thoughtful and contextually relevant design proposals.

In conclusion, the case study for designing and planning the Handloom Information Center at Yeola was a valuable learning experience for the first-year students. The guidance of subject teachers, Ar. Dipeeka Arbatti, Ar. Ashwini Gholap, and Ar. Shrikant Nikam, was instrumental in ensuring a productive and informative case study. The outcomes of this exercise equipped the students with practical knowledge and skills necessary for their future architectural projects, enabling them to design functional and user-centric spaces for the Handloom Information Center.

2018-2019	CASE STUDY- SANKET NURSERY
Subject:	Landscape Architecture-I
Subject Teacher:	Ar. Dipeeka Arbatti, Ar. Sonali Chaskar.
Class:	3rdYear
Topic:	Nursery
Location:	Sanket Nursery, Shrirampur M.I.D.C, Wakdi Road,Ahmednagar, Maharashtra
Aim:	To study different kind of species of plant material .(Softscape)
Objectives:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> i. To Introduce Different Types of plant material. ii. To Introduce growing conditions , Water requirement and sunlight required for each plant. iii. To study indoor and outdoor plants. iv. To Introduce difference between ground covers, shrubs, small trees and large trees
Duration:	11.00am To 2.00pm
No. Of Students:	36

OUTCOME:

A case study was conducted for the 3rd-year class to carry out a landscape study at Sanket Nursery, Wakadi. The landscape visit was organized under the guidance of Ar. Dipeeka Arbatti and Ar. Sonali. The main objectives of the study were to introduce different types of plant materials, understand their growing conditions, water requirements, and sunlight needs. The students also aimed to study both indoor and outdoor plants and distinguish between ground covers, shrubs, small trees, and large trees.

During the landscape visit, the students had the opportunity to explore the diverse species of plants and shrubs available at Sanket Nursery. They gained knowledge about the various decorative plants suitable for landscape layouts, enabling them to understand how to create visually appealing and well-balanced outdoor spaces.

The case study successfully fulfilled all its objectives:

Introduction to Plant Material: The students were introduced to a wide range of plant materials, including different species of plants, shrubs, and decorative plants commonly used in landscape design.

Growing Conditions and Water Requirements: The students learned about the specific growing conditions required for each plant, such as soil type, moisture levels, and climate preferences. Understanding the water requirements for various plants was vital for creating sustainable and water-efficient landscape designs.

Sunlight Needs: The students gained insights into the sunlight requirements of different plants, which is crucial in determining their suitable placement within a landscape layout.

Study of Indoor and Outdoor Plants: The landscape study allowed the students to explore both indoor and outdoor plants, understanding how each type contributes to different design elements and atmospheres.

Differentiation between Plant Types: Through the study, the students became proficient in differentiating between ground covers, shrubs, small trees, and large trees. This knowledge would aid them in selecting and combining plants to create harmonious and visually appealing landscapes. To document their findings, the students prepared a comprehensive inventory of all the plants present in the nursery. The documentation was carefully organized in a spiral-bound format, ensuring easy access and reference for future design projects and studies.

Overall, the landscape study at Sanket Nursery proved to be a valuable learning experience for the 3rd-year students. The hands-on exposure to various plant materials and their characteristics equipped the students with essential knowledge and skills necessary for creating thoughtful and aesthetically pleasing landscape designs in their future careers as architects.
