Expert Person:	Dr. Varsha Mahavarkar

Objectives	I. To understand the importance of personal hygiene. II. To learn about different hygiene practices. III. To aware girls about the personal hygiene.
Date:	08/03/2022
Duration:	2 Hour
No Of Participants:	68

Summary:

Amphitheatre. On 08 March 2022. Program was conducted by Dr. Varsha Mahavarkar who is the well-known doctor of the locality. Dr Varsha told students that International Women's Day is a globally celebrated annually on March 8 to commemorate the cultural, political, and socioeconomic achievements of women. It is also a focal point in the women's rights movement, bringing attention to issues such as gender equality, reproductive rights, and violence and abuse against women. It began back in February 1909.

The following year, at the second International Conference of Working Women in Copenhagen, Denmark, women's rights activist Clara Zetkin called for an international women's day to give women a greater voice to further their demands for equal rights. Dr. Varsha discussed menstrual hygiene is a subject which is as old as humanity but has gained recent importance due to the readiness of the society to accept its challenges. Young girls of some communities across various cultures, consider menstruation as a taboo. They feel that menstruation is a curse or burden. People considered women as filthy & impure in their menstrual period. Many communities restrict menstruating women from activities such as cooking, touching food, being with family members, attending religious ceremonies, and bathing.

Sanitary pads lead to rashes, the feeling of wetness and being uncomfortable, leaks, odour. They must be changed every 6 hours, according to medical professionals, and if you do not change them, they can either lead to leaks or cause foul odour and also pose a threat to your health. It is not possible to swim on your period if you use sanitary pads. Tampons, on the other hand, are better than pads as they do not cause rashes and similar troubles but cannot be left inside for longer than 8 hours. If left in the vagina for longer than that, they can cause Toxic Shock Syndrome. However, they still burn a hole in your pocket and also contribute to waste and degrade the environment. Leaks and odour are also common problems in women who use tampons, just like sanitary pads.

The newest entrant when it comes to sanitary hygiene is menstrual cups that have been gaining popularity for the last year among urban women. Known to be environment-friendly, a lot of women vouch for the fact that their entire period experience has changed since they switched to menstrual cups and there definitely are reasons.

So we invite Dr. Varsha Mahavalkar to educate students to use menstrual cup and its advantages. Dr. Varsha is researching on menstrual cups so it was helpful for our girls to understand the importance of using menstrual cups.
