2019-2020	CASE STUDY- PAITHANI TOURISM CENTER ,YEOLA
Subject:	Architectural Design-I
Subject Teacher:	Ar. DipeekaArbatti, Ar.AshwiniGholap, Ar. ShrikantNikam
Class:	1st Year
Topic:	Case Study
Location:	Paithani tourism center ,Yeola
Aim:	To study planning and circulation handloom information center.
Objectives:	To Study and analyze zoning patterns To study and analyze circulation pattern To study and analyze planning. To study and analyze arrangement of spaces.
Duration:	08:00 am to 04:00 pm
No. Of Students:	29

OUTCOME:

A case study was conducted for the first-year students to design and plan a Handloom Information Center at Yeola. The study took place at Yeola with 29 students, under the guidance of subject teachers Ar. Dipeeka Arbatti, Ar. Ashwini Gholap, and Ar. Shrikant Nikam. The main objective of the case study was to introduce the students to the site and its functioning, providing them with valuable insights for their design and planning project.

During the case study, the students were introduced to the site and gained an understanding of the Handloom Information Center's intended functions and purposes. Various maps were generated by different student groups, covering different topics related to the design and planning of the center. These maps included site analysis, circulation patterns, public built spaces, and other essential aspects.

The students were encouraged to draw sketches of the existing site conditions and circulation patterns during the site visit. This sketching exercise allowed them to observe and analyze the site's physical layout, connectivity, and spatial organization.

To gather comprehensive information, the students utilized various data-gathering methods, such as sketches, data collection, and photographs. They also examined the circulation patterns and the arrangement of public built spaces in the area.

After the site visit and data collection, the students returned to the college and presented their detailed reports during studio lectures. The reports comprised their findings, observations, and analysis, organized according to their respective groups devised by the subject teachers.

The case study provided the first-year students with practical knowledge and skills related to designing and planning a Handloom Information Center. By studying the site and its functions, they could develop thoughtful and contextually relevant design proposals.

In conclusion, the case study for designing and planning the Handloom Information Center at Yeola was a valuable learning experience for the first-year students. The guidance of subject teachers, Ar. Dipeeka Arbatti, Ar. Ashwini Gholap, and Ar. Shrikant Nikam, was instrumental in ensuring a productive and informative case study. The outcomes of this exercise equipped the students with practical knowledge and skills necessary for their future architectural projects, enabling them to design functional and user-centric spaces for the Handloom Information Center.
